THE SUICIDE QUESTION

Rate Shows Increase In All Countries Except Norway.

Although in many cases sulcides leaves notes in which they very earnestly and conveniently protest their sanity, present, day coroners' in lies are apt to remain true to the mehonored formula. "Suicide ing temporary insanity." That vi is vindicated by a Munich all st. Prof. Gaupp, who has completed brighted and its causes.

The writer holds that by far the majority of cases are due either to pronounced insanity or to psychopathic degeneracy, all other causes being relatively insignificant. The suicide rate shows a continued increase in all civilized countries with the exception of Norway, where the legal suppression of the drink traffic is mainly responsible for the decrease.

is mainly responsible for the decrease. In Germany the northern provinces and Suxony have the highest rates; Posen the lowest.

Posen the lowest.

Economic crises, business failure, higher cost of living and religious man's all tend to send the suicide rate up, while revolutions and wars have the contrary effect. The Germanic races produce more suicides or attempts at relf-destruction than the Latin, Slav and Celtic races. Protestant countries have a higher rate than Roman Catholic countries, and testant countries have a higher rate than Roman Catholic countries, and among the Jews suicide is rare. Men commit suicide oftener than women; single persons oftener than married persons. The rate increases with advancing age; only between 70 and 80 it is lower than in the pre-vious 10 years. May and thing are the months during which the impulse to suicide is strongest.

In Europe between 60,000 and 70,000 persons end their lives voluntarily every year, according to official returns, but this figure Prof. Gaupp considers far helps the actual numerous distribution. considers far below the actual num-

Letting His Light Shine.

If anybody wanted to see something curious just come with him, the marble cutter said. Somebody did. So he led the way to a monument that had inscriptions constant in the company of the control of the inscriptions engraved in three lan-guages - English, German and He-

"Same thing in each one," he said.
"You can see for yourself what it says in English—a good citizen, a good father, a good husband, and peace to his soul. The relatives had that eulogy printed in all three languages because their friends are kind of mixed on tongues. Some can read one thing and some another, and he was too good a man for anybody to pass by unaware of his virtues simply because they couldn't read the language on the tombstone,"

The Widow's Dimples.

Nobody but the woman herself knew how bad she felt, but the beauty doctor knew how bad she wanted to make other people think she felt. "Wanted to know if there wanted to make other people think she felt. "Wanted to know if there wasn't some way to remove dimples, or at least to fill them up so they wouldn't show while she was in mourning," he said. "Three mighty pretty dimples she had, too, one in each cheek and one in her chin. My diagnosis was that a gift of nature like that couldn't be hidden. The woman seemed genuinely sorry.

man seemed genuinely sorry.
"'It looks so frivolous,' she said
'to show dimples every time you speak when in mourning."
"That is what I call sorrowing some, even for a widow."

Measles.

Measles is the most "catchable" of all the contagious disease, says The Youth's Companion, but it is pretty well conceded that it can only be caught from a person who has it. It is not carried by the well. This being the case, its control should not be difficult. Every child who develops a somewhat violent attack of coryza with running eyes and all the usual symptoms of cold in the head, should be isolated for a day or two and watched for the development of the characteristic, eruption. When this comes out it is certain the child has not a "cold," but has, measles and its isolation should be continued until the eruption has entirely the day.

Parents as well as teachers have sometimes to run the gauntlet of awkward questions.

"Father," said little Tommy, one day, "what is an equinox?"

Father-Why-er-it is—ahem! For goodness' sake, Tommy, don't you know anything about mythology at all? An equinox was a fabled animal—half horse, half cow. Its name was derived from the words "equine" and "ox." It does seem as if these public schools don't teach children anything nowadays.—Strand Magazine.

The Swish of the Rod.

A college president in an address on pedagogy said:

"And one of the most remarkable changes in the last thirty years of teaching is the abolition of corporal punishment. A boy of this generation is never whipped. But boys of the last generation must have believed that their instructors all had for motto:

"The swish is father to the taught." Measles is the most "catchable" of

CHAPTER XXXIII.

A TOAST TO THE PAST,

IE middle of June found the Deppinghams leaving London once more, but this time not on a voyage into the mysterious south seas. They no longer were in-terested in the island of Japat, except as a reminiscence, nor were they concerned in the vagaries of Taswell Skaggs' will.

The estate was settled-closed!

Two months have passed since the Deppinghams departed from Japat, "for good and ali." Many events have come to pass since that memorable day, not the least of which was the exchanging of £500,000, less attorneys' and executors' fees. Lady Depping-ham and Robert Browne divided that amount of money and passed into legal history as the "late claimants to the estate of Taswell Skuggs."

It was Sir John Brodney's enter-He saw the way out of the difficulty, and he acted as pathfinder to the other and less perceiving counselors, all of whom had looked forward to an endless controversy.

The business of the Japat company and all that it entailed was transferréd by agreement to a syndicate.

Never before was there such a stupendous deal in futures. The grandchildren of the testators were ready to accept the best settlement that could be obtained. Theirs was a rather forlorn hope to begin When it was proposed that Agnes Deppingham and Robert Browne should accept £250,000 apiece in lieu of all claims, moral or legal, against the estate, they leaped at the

For a wonder, she dragged Deppingham with her on all occasions. It was a most unexpected transformation. Their friends were puzzled. The rumor went about town that she was in love with her husband.

As for Bobby Browne, he was devotion itself to Drusilia. They sailed for New York within three days after the settlement was effected, ignoring the enticements of a London season. The Brownes were rich. He could now become a fashionable specialist. They were worth nearly a million and a quarter in American dollars. They now had nothing in common with Taswell Skaggs. Skaggs is not a pretty

Mr. Britt afterward spent three weeks of incessant travel on the con-tinent and an additional seven days at sea. In Baden-Baden he happened upon Lord and Lady Deppingham. It be recalled that in Japat they had always professed an unboly averyion for Mr. Britt. Is it cause for wonder, then, that they declined his even proposed to invite their entire party, which included a few dukes and duchesses who were leisurely on their way to attend the long talked of nuptials in Thorberg at the end of June.

In Vienna the Deppinghams were joined by the Duchess of N., the Marchioness of B. and other fashionables. In a week all of them would be in the castle at Thorberg for the ceremony that now occupied the attention of social and royal Europe.

"And to think," said the duchess, "she might have died happily on that miserable island. I am sure we did all we could to bring it about by steaming away from the place with the plague chasing us. Dear me, how diabolically those wretches lied to the marquis! They said that every one in the chareau was dead, Lady Deppingham, and buried, if I am not mistaken. It would be much better for poor Genevra if she were to be buried instead of married next week," lamented the duch-

"Other women have married princes and got on very well," said Prince Lichtenstein.

"Oh, come now, prince," put in Lord Deppingham: "you know the sort of chap Brabetz is. There are princes and princes, by Jove."

"He's positively vile," exclaimed the duchess, who would not mince words. "She's entering upon a hell of a-I mean a life of hell," exploded the duke, hanging the table with his fist.

That fellow Brabetz is the rotteness thing in Europe. He's gone from bad to worse so swiftly that public opinlon is still months behind him."

"Nice way to talk of the groom," said the host genially. "I quite agree with you, however. I cannot understand the grand duke permitting it to go on unless, of course, it's too late to Interfere."

Poor dear! She'll never know what it is to be loved and cherished," said the marchioness dolefully.

Lord and Lady Deppingham glanced at each other. They were thinking of the man who stood on the dock at Aratat when the King's Own sailed away.

"The grand duke is probably saying the very thing to himself that Bra-betz's associates are saying in public," ventured a young Austrian count.
"What is that, pray?"

"That the prince won't live more than six mouths, He's a physical wreck today and a nervous one too. Take my word for it, he will be a creeping, imbecile thing inside of half year-locomotor ataxia and all that It's coming positively with a sharp

"I've heard be has tried to kill that woman in Paris half a dozen times." remarked one of the women, taking it as a matter of course that every one knew who she meant by "that woman.

"She was really responsible for the postponement of the welding in December, I'm told. Of course I don't know that it is true," said the marchioness, wisely qualifying her gos-sip. "My brother, the grand duke, does not confide in me."
"Well, my heart bleeds for her," said

"She's going into it with her eyes open," said the prince. "It isn't as if she hadn't been told. She could see for herself. She knows there's the other woman in Paris and- Oh, well, should we make a funeral of it? Let's do our best to be revelers, not mourners. She'll live to fall in love with some other man. They always do. Every woman has to live at least once in her life-if she lives long enough. Come, come! Let us forget the future of the Princess Genevra and drink to her present!"

"And to her past, if you don't mind, rince!" amended Lord Deppingham, looking into his wife's somber eyes.

CHAPTER XXXIV.

THE TITLE CLEAR.

WO men and a woman stood in the evening glow looking out over the tranquil sea that crept up and licked the foot of the cliff. It was September. Five months had passed since the King's Own steamed away from the harbor of Aratat. The new dispensation was in full effect. During the long, sickening weeks that preceded the coming of the syndicate Hollingsworth Chase toiled faithfully, resolutely, for the restora-tion of order and system among the demoralized people of Japat. With the transfer of the company's business his work was finished. Two young men from Sir John's were now settled in Aratat as legal advisers to the islanders, Chase having declined to serve longer in that capacity.

He was now waiting for the steamer which was to take him to Cape Town on his way to England-and home.

The chateau was closed and in the hands of a small army of caretakers. The three widows of Jacob von Blitz were now married to separate and distinct busbands, all of whom retained their places as heads of departments at the chateau, proving that courtship had not been confined to the white people during the closing days of the

The head of the bank was Oscar Arnheimer, Mr. Bowles having been deposed because his methods were even more obsolete than his coat of armor.

Selim disposed of his lawful interest n the corporation to Ben Ali, the new adi, and was waiting to accompany his master to America. It may be to add that the deal did not include the transfer of Neenah. She was not for sale, said Sellm to Ben All.

It was of Mr. Bowles that the three persons were talking as they stood in the evening glow.

"Yes, Selim," said the tall man in finnnels, "he's a sort of old dog Tray. ever faithful, but not the right kind You don't happen to know anything of old dog Tray, do you? No? I thought not. Nor you, Neenah? Well, he "Was he the one who was poisoned at the chateau, excellency?" asked Neenah timidiy.

"No, my dear," he replied soberly. "If I remember my history, he died in the seventeenth century or thereabouts. It's really of no consequence, however, Any good, faithful dog will serve my purpose. What I want to impress upon you is this-it is most difficult for a faithful old dog to survive a change of masters. It isn't human nature-or dog nature, either. I'm glad that you are convinced. Neenah. But please don't tell Sahib Bowles that he is a dog.

"Oh. no. excellency!" she cried ear-

"She is very close mouthed, sahib," added Selim. with conviction.

"We'll take Bowles to England with us next week." went on Chase dream-"We'll leave Japat to take care of itself."

He lighted a fresh cigarette, tenderly fingering it before applying the match. "I'll smoke one of hers tonight, Selim. See! I keep them apart from the others in this little gold case. I smoke them only when I am thinking. Now, run in. I want to be alone."

They left him, and he threw himself upon the green sod, his back to a tree, his face toward the distant chateau Hours afterward the faithful Selim came out to tell him that it was bedtime. He found his master still sitting there, looking across the moonlit flat in the direction of a place in the hills where once he had dwelt in marble halls.

"Selim," he said, arising and laying his hand upon his servant's shoulder, his voice unsteady with finality, have decided, after all, to go to Paris. We will live there, Selim. Do you un-derstand?" with strange fierceness, a great exultation mastering him. "We are to live in Paris!"

To himself all that night he was saying: "I must see her again! I shall

A thousand times he had read and reread the letter that Lady Deppingham had written to him just before the ceremony in the cathedral at Thorberg. He knew every word that it contained. He could read it in the dark. She had said that Genevra was going into a hell that no hereafter could surpass in horrors! And that was ages ago, it seemed to him. nevra had been a wife for hearly three months—the wife of a man she loathed. She was calling in her heart for him to come to her. She was suf-fering in that unspeakable hell. All this he had come to feel and shudder over in his unspeakable loneliness. He would go to her. There could be no wrong in loving her, in being near her, in standing by her in those hours

A copy of a London newspaper stuffed away in the recesses of his trunk, dated June 29, had come to him by post. It contained the telegraphic details of the brilliant wedding in Thorberg. Every royal family in Europe was represented. The list of noble names seemed endless to him, the flower of the world's aristocracy. How he hated them!

The next morning Selim aroused him from his fitful sleep, bringing the news that a strange vessel had arrived off Aratat. Chase rushed out upon his veranda, overlooking the little harbor. A long, white, graceful craft was lying in the harbor. He stared long and intently at the trim craft.

"Can I be dreaming?" be muttered, passing his hand over his eyes. "Don't lie to me. Selim! Is it really there?" Then he uttered a loud cry of joy and started off down the slope with the speed of a race horse, shouting in the frenzy of an uncontrollable glee.

It was the Marquis of B.'s white and blue yacht.

SCOTTISH GHOSTS.

Phantoms That Are Said Still to Haunt Country Houses.

The faith in ghosts still haunts the minds of many practical Scotsmen, and the instances of the live supernatural upon which it is fed are infinitely preferable to the irrational credulities of our crystal gazers and other romancers of the world of "spooks." At the seat of the Airlies there is the ghostly drummer, whose rub-a-dub is the invariable presage of death in the family. At Newton cas tle still walks of a night the "Green Lady," so called from her green silk dress, and in Berwickshire the resi-The faith in ghosts still haunts the Lady, so called from her green six dress, and in Berwickshire the resi-dence of Allanbank is haunted by the troubled spirit of "Pearlin Jean." The next day, while going through the ancient mansion with her host and hostess, among other rooms they looked into that out of which the lady had emerged. The romantic story just disclosed of Sir Claude Robert Campbell, who, after serving before the mast on a sailing ship, met his death while heroically trying to save his shipmates in a shipwreck, calls to mind the extraordinary career of the Earl of Egmont, who died a short time ago. Lord Graham, too, has served before the mast, while Lord Hardwicke was among the first to peg out claims in the goldfields of Western Australia. Afterwards he qualified as a mining engineer, went to the United States, and there got a job as a miner in a big gold-mine at Moutana, and worked for trade union wages at rock drilling ten hours a day.

A short time ago it was reported that Sir Arthur Curtis, who went to the Klondike goldfields in 1893 and nysteriously disappeared, had been discovered living as a hermit traper near that gold-mining region. Proof of this story, however, has not yet been found, but it reminds one of the return of Sir Genille Cave-Browne-Cave in 1908, who came into the title after a most adventurous and exciting cave in 1908, who came into the title after a most adventurous and exciting career, having in his time been a naval officer, a big game hunter, cowboy, and riding master of a crack dragoon corps. Mention might also be made of Lord Lyveden, who has, amongst other experiences, run a nursery garden in North Carolina, owned a fishing boat at Charlestown, and become in turn at Charlestown, and become in turn a ship's steward, an innkeeper, and an actor. With the possible exception of Lord Orford, he has had the most diversified career of any living member of the peerage.

The hoarded wealth of India is traditional, and all sorts of suggestions have been made to bring about the utilization of this wealth which lie-fallow. A few years ago Sir Ernest Cable had a good deal to say on the ubject, and only a few months back Mr. T. H. S. # UNION BANK OF CANADA

The 46th Annual Statement the Best in its History

The 46th statement of the Union Bank of Canada, submitted at the annual general meeting of the shareholders, held on Saturday, December lith, was a most satisfactory one. It shows a very liberal margin of profit over the amount required for diviouends. In fact, the bank earned at the rate of 14 per cent. on the average paid-up capital, and as a result of the satisfactory earnings increased their dividend from 7 to 8 per cent. The net profits for the year, after deducting expenses of management, interest due depositors, etc., etc., amounted to $451,620. During the year $800,000 of new stock was issued at a premium of 25 per cent., amounting to $359,810. These two sums, together with the balance at the credit of account on November 30, 1909, amounting to $28,000, made a total of $840,107 available for distribution. This was apportioned as follows: a very liberal margin of profit.

Three quarterly dividends at the rate of 1½ per cent. and one at the rate of 2 per cent., a total of $500,000 transferred to the rest account, this sum being made up of premiums on new stock and $140,000 from the ordinary earnings; the sum of $10,000 transferred to officers' pension fund, leaving a balance of $80,000 to be carried forward. The paid-up capital now amounts to $4,000,000, being increased by $800,000 during the year and the rest account now stands at $2,400,000, being also largely increased during the same period.

An examination of the statement

An examination of the statement shows that the deposits not bearing interest amount to almost $15,000,000 having increased by over $3,000,000 during the year. This increase in the deposits not bearing interest indicates an increased capacity for profit earning on the part of the bank. The statement shows the bank to be particularly strong in each reserves. The statement shows the bank to be particularly strong in cash reserves in gold and Dominion notes, which amount to nearly 13 per cent. of the total liabilities, and also that the assets immediately available, including stocks, debentures and call loans, are very nearly $15,000,000, or over 37 per cent. of the total liabilities.

The net profits for the year show a gain of $44,000 over the figures of the previous year and the total assets of the bank an increase of $5,000,000 during the same period. The total assets now amount to the large sum of $47,455,000, indicating that the Union Bank has become one of the larger of our financial institutions. That it is serving the needs of the business community is shown by the fact that it has loans to business houses of over $30,000,000. Another indication of its growing importance in the country is the fact that during the year 37 branches or agencies of the bank have been opened. Altogether, the showing made by the bank is the best in its history and reflects the highest credit upon the president, board of directors and general manager. eral manager.

Simon, K.C., to be Solicitor-General of Britain, in place of Sir Rufus Isaacs, makes him the youngest man of modern times to hold that appointment. Lord Selborne, who spent twelve years as a junior, became Solicitor-General at forty-nine, the present Lord Chancellor at forty-eight, Lord Halsbury at fifty, Sir William Harcourt at forty-six, Sir Robert Finlay at fifty-three, Sir William Robson at fifty-four, Sir S. T. Evans at forty-seven, and Sir Rufus Isaacs at forty-nine. Son of a Bath Congregational minister, Mr. Simon greatly distinguished himself as a student at Edinburgh and Oxford, and was called to the Bar in 1899. He has thus only taken eleven years to win one of the biggest prizes in the legal profession. Sir Edward Carson declared once that Mr. Simon, as a junior counsel, was the ablest he had ever known.

A PENALTY FOR FIRES

RAILWAY COMPANIES TO BE HELD RESPONSIBLE

Conservation Commission Report that Over Thirty Per Cent. of the Forest Fires are Caused by Railway Locomotives-Are Advising Legislation to Prevent the Enormous Annual Fire Losses.

Ottawa.—Apprehension has been ex-pressed by the railway officials at the proposed legislation regarding fires set by locomotives, which was foreshadowed by Hon. Clifford Sifton, chairman of the commission of conservation in an address recently delivered before the Ottawa Canadian club.

with this interview M. J. Patton, acting secretary of the commission of conservation, said:

"The railroad man who gave that interview was not informed of facts. The statistics representing fires set by railways as given by Mr. Sifton in his recent address are from the most authentic source. When it was known early in the season that the forest fire losses this year would likely be heavy the commission of conservation despatched expert officials to visit the scenes of various fires and investigate causes.

The reports of these men have been made and show that over thirty per cent. of the forest fires for which definite causes could be assigned were caused by railway locomotives. Then there is a most inexcusable ignorance displayed regarding the legislation the commission is asking the government to pass. The s'atement that the enactment of the legislation vecommended would holi railways responsible for all fires adjacent to their lines is not true. Nothing of the kind has ever been proposed. What the commission did recommend was that the railways should be liable to a penalty for all fires actually caused by sparks from thir locomotives and for all fires which were allowed to spread from their right of way to adjacent lands.

They will not be held liable for fires if they can should be liable for fires in the following proportion—20 per cent. for the provincial university, 50 per cent. for our elementary public schools, 15 per cent. for our elementary public per cent. for an initial grant to new school districts.

The act provides for a division of the revenue obtained from this source in the following proportion—20 per cent. for our elementary public per

They will not be held liable for fires if they can show that they had on their locomotives the best modern appliances to prevent the emission of sparks; that their employes had shown no negligence in conducing to starting or preventing of fires, and that they had a properly equipped fire fighting staff to check fires once started.

"In other words, railways are to be liable to a penalty for fires they start,

LESSON II.-FIRST QUARTER, FOR JAN. 8, 1911

Text of the Lesson, I Kings xii, 25, to xiii, 6-Memory Verses, 28-30-Golden Text, Ex. xx, 4-Commentary Prepared by Rev. D. Stearns.

All the predictions and foreshadowings of Scripture and their furniments should be of the greatest possible interest to every child of God, and before we leave the story of Rehoboam we should notice that in the fifth year of his reign, or just about thirty-four years after the temple was completed, it was prundered by Shishak, king of Egypt, Compare 1 Kings vi, 38, and 11 corror, xii, 2, 9, In sohn ii, 19-21. the Lord Jesus spoke of Himself as surrection, and He must have been about thirty-four years of age when the was crucified.

the first king of the ten tribes, and afterward spoken of over twenty times as the man who made Israel to sin, and this he did deliberately, although he had been told that the kingdom had been divided and part of it given to him because of this very sin of to him because of this very sin of idolatry on the part of Solomon (chapter xi, 31-38). He had also been told that if he would do r ght in the sight of the Lord the Lord would be told that if he would do right in the sight of the Lord the Lord would be with him and build him a sure house. He seems, however, to have had no confidence in the assurance of the Lord, but was afraid that if the people went to Jerusalem to offer sacrifice in the house of the Lord the kingdom would return to the house of David. So he took counsel and made two calves of gold, placing one in Bethel and one in Dan, for the people to worship and said, "Behold thy gods, O Israel, which brought the up out of the land of Egypt" (verse 28). There is an evil one, the devil, who hates the living and true God and His word and His people and ever seeks to have people worship him instead of God. Whatever is not the worship of God is the worship of the devil and of demons, and all idolatry is of the devil (Deut. xxxii, 16, 17; I Cor. x, 20; Ps. cvi, 35-37). The great deceiver and enemy of God and man sought to have even the Son of God worship him and to that end offered Him all the kingdoms of the world and the glory of them (Matt. iv, 8-10). He will ere this age closes, but after the church has been caught away, possess a man whom all the world will worship except those whose

Whom the Lord did not send, and therefore the devil did. Three of the places mentioned in our lesson were places of the greatest possible interest to a child of God, and if Jeroboam had been such he could not but have profited greatly by the rec.llection of what had happened there. Two of them, Sheehem and Bethel, would have reminded him of an altar unto the Lord and of the Lord's appearing to Abraham and to Jacob (Gen, xii and xxviii). At Penuel or Peniel the Lord weestled with Jacob, humbled him and gave him his new name of Israel, and Jacob sail, "I have seen God face to face" (Gen, xxxii). At Shecham Joshua delivered his fare-well address to Israel, which might have read it, for he greatly needed such words.

There also the body of Joseph was bright the places mentioned in our lesson were places of the greatest possible interest to a child of God, and if Jeroboam had been such he coull not but have profited greatly by the rec.llection of what happened there. Two of them, Sheehem and Bethel, would have reminded him of an altar unto the Lord westled with Jacob, humbled him and gave him his new name of Israel, and Jacob sail, "I have seen God face to face" (Gen, xxxii). At Sheeham Joshua delivered his fare-well address to Israel, which might have read it, for he greatly needed such words.

If an expression can be a key to a chapter, then chapter xiii is the greatest "man of God" chapter in the Bible, for the title is found there fifteen times, though the name of the man of God is not given.

It is a marvellous record and a most solema warning not to believe even an angel nor a prophet, however venerable, if his testimonv is contrary to the word of God. It may be that the Arostle Paul had it in mind when, he, by the Spirit, wrote Gal. i, 8. in chapter xiii, 2, we have Josiah, the king, mentioned by name about 300 years before he was born, and the fulfillment of this prediction concerning him is recorded in If Kings xxiii, 18-17. May this prediction and fulfillment strengthen us to believe firmly that every prediction in Scripture shall be as literally fulfilled. Read carefully this wonderful chapter.

It seems to be the fate of the autoist to see the under side of things.

JACOB COULD SCHURMAN The President of Cornell University

The President of Cornell University

When Jacob Gould Schurman was a boy on his father's backwoods farm on Prince Edward Island, where he was born in 1854, educational advantages were scant in quality and costly in time and energy. Books were few, the one newspaper that connected the family with the outside world was but a provincial weekly, and the district school was taught by one teacher who gave the staple things of education, with no fancy dishes of the modern class.

When Jacob was thirteen he had to become self-supporting, and secured a clerkship of the general utility type in a country store at thirty dollars a year and his board and washing. In his second year he received sixty dollars and with this coming of wealth came a longing for a better education.

In two years he had saved eighty dollars and with this as a bulwark against starvation he attended the village high school, studied voraciously day and night and entered a competitive examination for a scholarship at Prince of Wales College at Charlottetown, on the island. He won the scholarship of sixty dollars and went to the college. Then after a year of teaching he went to Acadia College, where his appetite for prize-winning became instable. He won a scholarship of $500 a year for three years offered by the University of London, followed by his winning the traveling fellowship of the Hibbert Society, and other prizes, scholarships and similar rewards, with predestined certainty and monotonous iteration.

He studied in London, Paris, Edinburgh, Berlin, Göttingen, and half a dozen other cities, and when six or seven nations had given him all they could supply but not nearly all he could absorb, he returned to Canada as professon in one of the colleges.

In 1855, Andrew D. White recommended him to Cornell, and the year

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Cured Her.

Toronto, Canada.—"I shall endeavor to describe to you how I felt before I began taking Lydia E. Pinkham's. Vegetable Compound. I scarcely knew what it was to be well. I had awful bearing-down pains and usually before mymonthly periods I suffered terribly and had to go to bed. I was net able to walk across the bed. I was net able to walk across the floor the pain was so bad. I doctored for a long time, but the doctor's treatment did not do me any good. I gave up all hopes of ever all hopes of ever being well again until one day myhusband saw the Compound advertised in the paper. He decided to get me a bottle, and I amthankful he did. I had not taken one bottle before I began to feel better, and I kept on taking it until now I am a different woman. It also helped me during maternity and childbirth. I can thoroughly recommend your Vegetable Compound to any woman who is afflicted with female troubles."—Mrs. J. M. Tweedalle, 138 Nassau St., Toronto, Canada.

Mrs. J. M. TWEEDALE, 138 Nassau St., Toronto, Canada.
The success of Lydia E., Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, is unparalleled. It may be used with perfect confidence by women who suffer from displacements, inflammation, ulceration, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indirection dizziness or paragus prostre. gestion, dizziness, or nervous prostra-tion.

Pain Flees Before it.—There is more virtue in a bottle of Dr. Thomas' Eclectric Oil as a subduer of pain than in gallons of other medicine. The public know this and there are few households throughout the country where it cannot be found. Thirty where the country was the found that have the properties and the properties are formiliarized the protry where it cannot be found. Thirty years of use has familiarized the people with it, and made it a household medicine throughout the western world.

Anklets With Hobble Skirts

Anklets With Hobble Skirts

English women have taken up the fashion of wearing golden bangles about the ankles as do the women of India and Africa. This fashion of the jewelled anklets was introduced into Paris a short time ago and has made a quick journey to London.

The opportunity for the anklet craze is furnished by the short and narrow skirts for day wear and the transparent finish of lace, net of chiffon which is set on the edge of the skirts of some of the new evening gowns, so that colored stockings and anklets can be plainly seen.

The bands are made in many designs, but the golden snake with jewelled eyes is the favorite. A hammered gold anklet with precious stones set at regular intervals is largely sold. As a rule only one anklet is worn.

A young Quaker had been for some time casting different glances at a maiden of his persuasion, while she, true to the tenets of her up-bringing, had given him mighty little encouragement. However, one day the opportunity of placing the matter upon a more stable footing presented itself to Seth, and he shyly inquired: "Martha, dost thou love me?"

"Why, Seth, we are commanded to love one another," quoted the maiden. "Ah, Martha, but dost thou feel what the world calls love?"

A New Kind of Pudding

A New Kind of Pudding

Lord Rosebery has the reputation of being a delightful host, and also of having wonderful tact. This latter gift was certainly displayed on one occasion when he was entertaining a large number of guests amongst whom was a farmer, who, tasting icepudding for the first time, came to the conclusion that there had been some mistake in the kitchen, and wishing to save the other guests from a like experience, whispered to his host that by some accident the pudding had got frozen. Lord Rosebery listened without a smile, tasted the pudding had got frame, Lord Rosebery listened without a smile, tasted the pudding had got frozen thanked his informant; then, calling an attendant, said something to him and turned with a relieved face to the farmer, saying! "It's all right, they tell me that it is a new kind of pudding, and is frozen on purpose."

The annoying itching and the disfiguring blotches on the skin make this trouble almost unbearable to those who are not familiar with the scothing, healing influence of Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Relief comes almost, a score of this ointment is not an atural.

There is always danger of eczema spreading and becoming chronic. For this reason the use of the ointment should be regular and persistent until the cure is thorough and complete.

Mrs. John J. Delory, Linwood, Antigonish country, N. S., writes:—"I want to say that Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven a great blessing to me. I had salt rheum on one hand, and could not get it healed up. The itching was most distressing at times. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is particularly useful where there are children. The second car of steel for the new bridge west of here, over the Red Deer river arrived this week and was unloaded by Mr J A Morison of Innisfail, who has charge of the work and a gang of men. Another car of steel is expected daily which will bring the weight of steel used in construction, up to 80 tons. As soon as the third car arrives and is unloaded the material will be teamed out to the bridge site. The steel work on the bridge will commence immediately on this bank of the river and extend for 225 feet towards the other bank and the remaining gap will be spanned by wooden trestle work Altogether the entire length of the bridge is in the neighborhood of 300 feet. For the present wooden pile peers will be used but it is the intention of the government to re-place them at a later date with concrete cement. It is expected that the construction of this bridge will take up the greater part of the winter.
